BETTER SANITATION.

POLICE TO BE ASKED TO AS-SIST.

Mayor Yeiser stated this morning that he would notify the police commissioners to have the police pay more attention to the sanitary condition of the city. Several cases of neglect in a sanitary way have been reported. The officers were today instructed by shobs county. Mayor Yeiser to secure a warrant against the Armour Packing Co. for maintaining a nuisance on South Third street opposite the Nance undertaking establishment. At this branch house chickens are killed and picked and the residents and nearby merchants complain of the stench and ask that the nuisance be stopped. The officers have notified the company that unless something is done today towards abating the nuisance a warrant place was made to move outside the city limits.

It is every woman's duty to be as youthful and good looking as possible, and there is nothing which adds more beauty than a lovely complexion, and there is no remedy which will restore the complexion and give one that youthful appearance like Mme. A. Ruppert's World Renowned Face Bleach. This grand remedy clears the skin of every discoloration, and impurity, including pimples, freckles, moth patches, browin spots liver marks, comedones, flesh-worms, blackheads, oiliness, sallowness, muddiness and skin diseases. It accomplishes these wonderful effects by drawing the impurities and discolorations to the surface of the skin and then removing these blemishes by gradually scaling off a slight surface of the outer scarfskin. It does this in so natural a manner as to be entirely harmless to the most delicate complexion, and, having this most delicate complexion, and, having this action, it cannot fail to produce excellent effects.

COTTON. New York, May 19-Higher Liverpool cables helped the price of cotton on the opening, and another violent rise in cotton was the result. W.P. Brown leader of the New Orleans bull clique was in New York yesterday and became a spectator on the floor of the New York cotton exchange. He gave out large buying orders, and these and other buying orders forced the price to new high levels. Mr. Brown is the nead of W. P. Brown & Co., of New Orleans, a cotton firm with member ships on the New Orleans and New Captain and Mrs. George Fetter York cotton exchanges. He had this for still nigher prices in cotton. The Mrs J R Wickliffe has returned to statistical position of cotton is so ed without any manipulation." Mr. Brown went on to say shout himself, that he was not a speculator, but that his firm confined itself to the merchandising of cotton and never interested itself in speculative movements. New York cotton traders were inclined to smile at this observation on the part of Mr. Brown, considering that his appearance on the floor of the exchange belied his words. A surprising fea ture of the situation is that cotton is fined to her bed for the past four selling higher in New Orleans than in New York. TRAINS CANNOT RUN THERE YET, BUT A CROWD IS ON HAND TODAY.

No train was run to Kevil, the new town near Woodville on the Cairo extension of the I. C. this morning on account of the track not having been laid that far. The graders lack three miles of reaching Kevil and the estimates of the railroad men who said several months ago that the rod would be completed to Kevil by today fell short. There is a big barbecue there today and the promoters are to have a sale of town lots and many are in attendance. Several went down from Paducah and the farmers from all over the county are at the sale. The Wood men of the World band was taken down to furnish music.

TO CROSS ATLANTIC

Paris, May 19-M. Lecornu, the writer on engineering topics, informed your correspondent that Louis Godard is now actively preparing to cross the Atlantic by balloon. This scheme was first talked of in the spring of 1901, but postponed on account of financial obstacles. These have been overcome and the airship is in the course of construction.

Godard is constructing a balloon of 94 feet diameter, with a capacity of 13,000 square meters. It will be able to support a weight of 28,000 pounds. The basket will have two stories and will carry eight smaller balloons containing 2000 square meters extre gas. Godard is at the head of the under taking, but will be assisted by several Gravel Switch was this morning other French aeronauts. Besides great pened after a several months idleness quantities of provisions, scientific apand about 50 men have been given paratus, etc., the ballcon will carry not been worked since the beginning motor. Godard has secured 200,000 of winter and now that they have been opened again gravel trains will start from New York at a time of the be numerous over the roads. This is year when the Atlantic ocean is swept one of the principal graveling stations by west, northwest and southwest on the Illinois Central, and gravel is winds. He expects to move at a vesent out from there to all parts of the locity of about thirty miles per hour, which would mean ten day's travel.

m and Rendered Into Modern English From Sir Edwin By EDWIN CASKODEN [CHARLES MAJOR]

As to whether my two friends met or ot that day at Bridewell I cannot say, but I think they did. They had in some way come to an understanding that lightened both their hearts before lightened both their hearts before Mary left for France, and this had been their only possible opportunity. Jane and I were always taken into their confidence on other occasions, but as to this meeting, if any there was, we have never been told a word. My belief is that the precision years of belief is that the meeting was con-trived by Wolsey upon a soletan prom-ise from Brandon and Mary never to reveal if, and if so they have sacredly kept their word.

On the 13th of August 1514 Mary Tudor, with her golden hair falling over her shoulders, was married at Greenwich to Louis de Valois, De Longueville acting as his French maj-esty's proxy. Poor, fair Preserpina!

Note.—Maidens only were married with their hair down. It was "the sacred token of maidenhood."—Editor.

CHAPTER XX. DOWN INTO FRANCE.

it came to pass that Mary was married unto Louis and went down into France.
[Again the editor takes the of substituting Hall's quaint int of Mary's journey to France.]

Then when all things were redy for the conceptuance of this noble Ladye, the type her brother in the moment of Auguste, and the xV daye, with the quene his wife and his sayde sister and all the court ame to Douer and there targed, for the synde was troblous and the wether fowle, a so much that shipe of the kynnes. wife and his sayde sister and al the court came to Douer and there taryed, for the wynde was froblous and the wether fowle, in so muche that shippe of the kynges called the Libeck of LXC. tonne was dryuen a shore before Sangate and there brase & of VI C. men scantely escaped life and yet the most part of them were hurt with the wrecke. When the wether was fayre, then al her wardrobe, stable, and riches was shipped, and such as were appoyncted to geve their attendaunce on her as the duke of Norfolke, the Marques of Dorset, the Bysshop of Durham, the Earle of Surrey, the lorde Delawar, sir Thomas Bulleyn and many other knights. Squyers, gentlemen & ladles, al these went to shippe and the sayde ladye toke her leaue of the quene in the castell of Douer, and the king brought her to the sea syde, and kissed her, and betoke her to GOD and the fortune of the sea and to the gouernaunce of the French king her husband. Thus at the hower of four of the clock in the morenyage thys fayre ladye toke her shippe with al her noble compaignle: and when they had sayled a quarter of the see, the wynde rose and senered some of the shippes to Cayles, and some in Flaunders and her shippe hard on shore, but the botes were redy and received this noble ladye, and at the landyng Sir Christopher Garnysha stode in the water and toke her in his armes, and so caryed her to land, where the Duke of Vandosme and a Cardynall with many estates receyued her, and her ladles, and welcommed all the noble men into the countrey, and so the quene and all her trayne came, to Eulievn and ther rested, and from thence she remound by dyuerse lodgynges tyll she came all most within ill miles of Abuyle beside the forrest of Arders, and the take toke her way righte on, not stopping to conurse. Then he returned to Abuyle by a secret waye, & she was with reseat intumbe, procession & she was with reseat intumbe.

her and now they wer out of seruice, which caused the to take thought in so much, some dyed by way returning, and some fell mad, but ther was no remedy. After the English lordes had done ther commission the French kynge wylled the to take no lenger payne & so gaue to theim good rewardes and they toke ther leaue of the quene and returned.

Then the Dolphyn of Fraunces alled Frauncys duke of Valoya, or Fraunceys d'Angouleme, caused a solempne justes to be proclaymed, which shoulde be kept in Parys in the moneth of Noueber next ensuying, and while al these thinges were prepearying, the Ladye Mary, the V. daye of Noueber, then beying Sondaye was with greate solempnitee crowned Queen of Fraunce in the monasterye of Saynet Denyee, and the Lorde Dolphyn, who was young, but very toward, all the season held the crowing ouer her hed, because it was of great waight, to her greuaunce.

Mine. Mary took her time, since a

Mme. Mary took her time, since a more deliberate journey bride never made to waiting bridegroom. She was a study during this whole period, weep ing and angry by turns. She, who had never known a moment's illness in all her days, took to her bed upon two oc-casions from sheer antipathetic nerv-ousness, and would rest her head upon Jane's breast and cry out little, half articulate prayers to God that she might not kill the man who was her husband when they should meet. When we met the king about a league this side of Abbeville, and when Mary beheld him with the shadow of death upon his brow, she took hope, for she hands, so manifestly weak was he mentally and physically. As he came up she whipped her horse and rode by him at a gallop, seading me back with worst that he must not be so ardent; that he frightened her, poor, timid litthat he frightened her, poor, think notice thing, so afraid of—nothing in the world! This shocked the French courtiers, and one would think would have offended Louis, but he simply grinned from ear to ear, showing his yellow fangs, and said whimperingly: "On, the same is worth the touble. Tall her game is worth the trouble. Tell her majesty I walt at Abbeville."

The old king had ridden a horse to meet his bride in order that he might appear more gallant before her, but a litter was waiting to take him back to Abbeville by a shorter route, and they were married again in person.

Again a quotation from Hall is sub-

Mondaye the .v! daye of Noueber, ther the sayde quene was receyued into the cytee of Parys after the order thar foloweth. First the garde of the cytee me ther with oute Saynete Denyee al in coates of goldsmythes woorke with shippes gylt, and after them meth ther all the presise and religious whiche were estemed to be .iii. The quene was in a chyre coured about (but not her ouer person) in white clothe of golde, the horses that drewe it couered in clothe of golde, on her hed a coronall, al of greate perles, her necke and brest full of luels, before her wente a garde of Almaynes after ther fascion, and after them al noblemen, as the Dolphyn, the Duke of Burbon, Carynalles, and a greate nomber of estates. Aboute her person rode the kynge's garde the which wer Scottes. On the morowe bega the lustes, and the quene stode so that al men might see her, and wonder at her beautic, and the kynge was feble and lay on a couche for weakenes.

So Mary was twice married to Louis,

So Mary was twice married to Louis, and, although she was his queen fast and sure enough, she was not his wife. You may say what you will, but I like a fighting woman, one with a touch of the savage in her when the occasion arises, one who can fight for what she loves as well as against what she hates. She usually loves as she fights—with all her heart.

all her heart.

So Mary was crowned and was now a queen and hedged about by the tinseled divinity that hedgeth royalty.

It seemed that she was climbing higher and higher all the time from Brandon, but in her heart every day she was prompth neary to him.

Brandon, but in her heart every day she was brought nearer to him.

There was one thing that troubled her greatly, and all the time. Henry had given his word that Brandon should be liberated as soon as Mary had left the shores of England, but we had heard nothing of this matter, although we had received several letters from home. A doubt of her brother, in home. A doubt of her brother, in whom she had little faith at best, made whom she had little faith at best, made an ache at her heart which seemed at times likely to break—so she said. One night she dreamed that she had witnessed Brandon's execution, her brother standing by in excellent humor at the prank he was playing her, and it so worked upon her waking hours that by evening she was ill. At last I received a letter from Brandon, which had been delayed along the which had been delayed along the road, containing one for Mary. It told of his full pardon and restoration to favor, greater even than before, and her joy was so sweet and quiet and yet so softly delirious that I teil you plain-so softly delirious that I tell you plainly it brought tears to my eyes, and I could not hold them back.

The marriage, when once determined upon, had not cast her down nearly so deep as I had expected, and soon she grew to be quite cheerful and happy.
This filled me with regret, for I thought of how Brandon must suffer, and felt that her heart was a poor, filmsy thing to take this trouble so lightly.
I spoke to Jane about it, but she only

He could drive $1,950. her into the mouth of purgatory.

"Do you think so?"

"I know it."
I remained in thought a moment or two and concluded that she was right. In truth, the time had come to me when I believed that Jane, with her good sense and acute discernment, could not be wrong in anything, and I think so yet. So I took comfort on faith from her and asked, "Do you remember what you said should happen before we return to England?"

I tope hung her lead, "I remember."

Jane hung her head. "I remember."

She then put her hand in mine and murmured, "I am ready any time you wish." (TO BE CONTINUED.

The "Style of a 'Dorothy Dodd'"

Let us assume that your shoes fit you. Now what next? What is most important? Unquestionably "Style!" Demand that a shoe shall possess "Style!" If it has style and little else you want it; if it has not style but everything else, you don't want it!

The "Style of a 'Dorothy Dodd'" is unique.

It cannot be duplicated by any other maker, because the "Dorothy Dodd" is a totally different construction from any other ladies' shoe made. It holds the foot firmly at the waist (that's the instep), prevents the toes from slipping forward, and thus gives a correct poise in walking. Yet it makes the foot look nearly a whole size smaller. That's curious, and you won't believe it till you see it.
